

PEOPLE . PLACES

THE WILD BEAUTY OF THE PYRENEES

45' (ENG, GER, FRE subs)

Come with us on a fantastic journey throughout the rough beauty of one of the wildest mountain ranges in Europe: the Pyrenees.

Spanning over 400 kilometers from the Mediterranean Sea to the Atlantic Ocean, the Pyrenees are the natural frontier between France and Spain, with Andorra, one of the smallest states in Europe, tucked in the heart of it. We explore the French Pyrenees and invite the audience to meet its people, living a rural life in a country of sheer beauty. From the Mediterranean coast to the Atlantic Ocean, we pass 3.000 meter high mountains with untouched lakes, giant waterfalls and medieval villages where the people are living a life in close connection to the wild nature. We accompany several protagonists over a period of one year. The different seasons characterize the untouched mountain landscape of the Pyrenees as well as the flora and fauna. With Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter, we experience the transformation of this astonishing landscape and the challenges local people have to face in each season.

Original Title: Die wilde Schönheit der Pyrenäen

Year: 2020

Produced by: ProspectTV, NDR

