THE SANCTION GAME

EU STRATEGIES AND RUSSIAN EVASION

52' (ENG, GER) | 2024 | ECO Media, ZDF, arte

In response to Russia's brutal war on Ukraine, the EU has imposed numerous sanctions —yet Russia finds ways to circumvent them. The EU's sanctions target Russian actors, companies, and banks to weaken Russia's economy. However, a network of front companies and middlemen facilitates trade across EU borders, undermining these efforts. That is how microelectronic components from the West find their way into Russian weapons. Wood, supposedly from Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan, is experiencing an import boom. However, research shows that the wood, mislabelled by fake customs documents, actually comes from Russia. Russian oil illegally enters Europe by sea. Lithuania and Turkey are becoming hubs. Insiders, customs investigators, and investigative journalists from Brussels to the Lithuanian-Belarusian and Turkish-Georgian borders reveal the inner workings of these forbidden trades.

HISTORY OF ST. MORITZ

45' (ENG, GER) | 2024 | Autentic, ZDF, arte

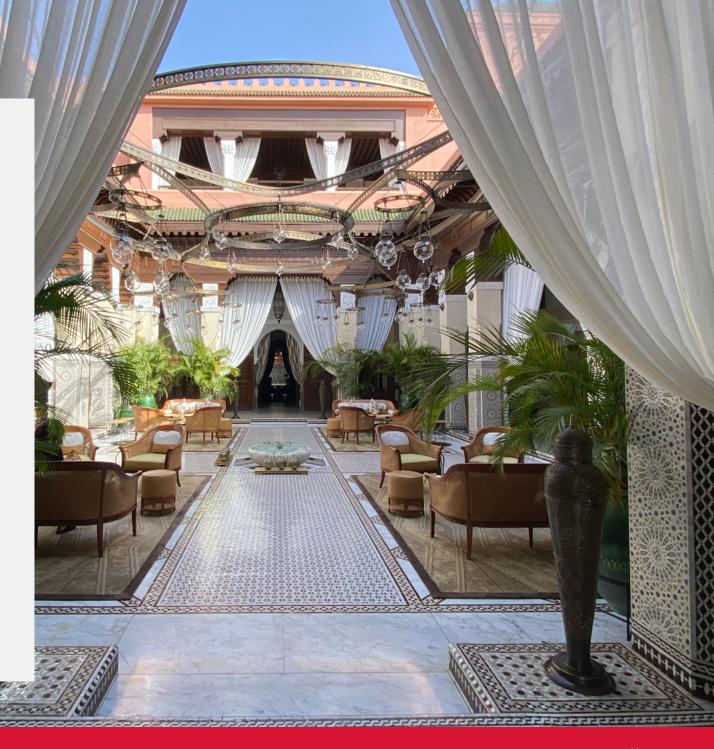

Birthplace of Alpine winter tourism and numerous winter sports, and the most fashionable meeting place in the Alps: St. Moritz. Over a hundred years ago, the hype surrounding the small mountain village in the middle of a magnificent mountain backdrop began with wealthy English people spending the winter here and changing the town forever. Grand hotels were built, and the village of 5000 souls quickly became a hotspot for the rich and famous. Coco Chanel took refuge here during the war years, Alfred Hitchcock spent his winters here, Audrey Hepburn decided to live entirely in Switzerland after her first stay, the Shah of Persia moved his court to a chalet in the village during the winter months and bon vivant Gunter Sachs opened up the mountain village to a permissive and cosmopolitan lifestyle. Since then, the motto in St. Moritz has been: there is nothing that does not exist here.

LEGENDS AND LUXURY

HISTORY OF MARRAKESH

45' (ENG, GER) | 2024 | Autentic, ZDF, arte

Marrakesh, hailed as the most enchanting city in the Maghreb, captivated Western elites with its almost mystical allure. In the last century, the Hotel La Mamounia became a meeting place for famous personalities. For Winston Churchill, the politician of the century and a talented painter, it was the most beautiful place in the world, inspiring some of his most famous works. Alfred Hitchcock shoots a classic film in the streets of the Medina, which triggers a tourist boom. Yves Saint Laurent found groundbreaking inspiration for his fashion in Marrakech. The Rolling Stones escaped the British police there, and after their return, the band was forever changed. Paul Getty Junior and his wife Talitha hosted lavish parties in their riad that are still legendary. These figures all contribute to Marrakech's enduring spirit and mythos.

Winters are getting warmer and the snow is becoming increasingly unreliable. Ski resorts have long been increasingly relying on artificial snow. But how does modern snowmaking work today? And what conditions are needed? Spend a season on the road with Stefan Megert, head snowmaker at the Davos Klosters ski lifts. Technical snow can compensate for the decline in natural snow quite well - but not on all slopes. There are places where conventional snowmaking systems are no longer sufficient. A special "snow factory" is therefore used at the Swiss biathlon base, which can also work at temperatures above zero.
